WELCOME | BIENVENIDOS | BEM-VINDOS

Welcome

to the 15TH VANCOUVER LATIN AMERICAN FILM FESTIVAL

¡NUESTRA QUINCEAÑERA!

HAPPY 15th BIRTHDAY VLAFF!!

I would like to start by saying that celebrating 15 years of the Vancouver Latin American Film Festival makes us feel proud.

This festival began as a few screenings on a long weekend and since then, with the support of so many volunteers, and you the loyal audience, VLAFF has grown up to become a significant event in the cultural landscape of Vancouver. In terms of the Latin American arts scene in the city, our curatorial team has tried very hard to play our part in showcasing for Vancouver audiences what we think is the most representative and best of contemporary Latin American cinema.

As every year, VLAFF's film selection presents the masters of Latin American cinema with film such as Aquarius (Brazil) by Kleber Mendonça Filho, The Untamed (Mexico) by Amat Escalante and Neruda (Chile) by Pablo Larraín, which all premiered at some of the most prestigious film festivals in the world such as Cannes and Venice. These three films are in the section International Hits, among other recent successes of the region's cinema.

For the sixth year, the section New Directors focuses on directors who are presenting their first or second feature-length films. This year the selection is diverse, not only thematically but regionally. Films from Ecuador, Venezuela, Chile, Mexico, Brazil, Argentina, Colombia and Canada represent some of the most daring cinema of the year. The twenty participants in the 2017 Youth Jury will watch these eight films and select the winner of the Youth Choice Award.

Last year we introduced the section ¡Activismo!, a series that focuses on films that address social justice, historical, and political issues. This year we have a special focus on Women in ¡Activismo!, presenting four films that address the fights for justice by Latin women in different capacities: Tempestad (Mexico) by Tatiana Huezo, Adriana's Pact (Chile) by Lissette Orozco, Dolores (USA) by Peter Bratt, and The Cambridge Squatter (Brazil) by Eliane Caffé. The films in this section give voice to powerful women leaders, as well as women struggling to survive under unjust legal systems or uncover the truth of a country's legacy of violence.

Welcoming Cuba as the Guest Country at this year's festival, we are pleased to present a focus on Cuban cinema, which includes the Closing Night Film, Santa & Andrés by Carlos Lechuga, a poignant, politically charged film that addresses the incongruity of the Cuban regime. The prestigious Cuban film school EICTV (Escuela Internacional de Cine y Televisión, San Antonio de los Baños) is also present at the festival with a retrospective of some of its best short films in honour of its 30th anniversary. And, we will present three masterpieces of Cuban cinema including Tomás Gutiérrez Alea's landmark film Strawberry and Chocolate, in honour of the 25th anniversary of its release. I'd also like to acknowledge the tremendous talent of Cuban artist Fabián Muñoz who designed the Quinceañera dress for the festival poster.

A personal favourite of mine from last year, The Distinguished Citizen (Argentina) by the talented filmmaking trio of Gastón Duprat, Mariano Cohn and Andrés Duprat, will be the Opening Night Film. Oscar Martínez (whom you may recognize from Wild Tales) was awarded the prize for Best Actor at the Venice Film Festival and his performance is truly memorable. This brilliant satire kicks off 11 days of amazing cinema that I hope will have you all on the edge of your seats.

See you in the cinema!!

I am very pleased to welcome everyone visiting Vancouver to enjoy the festival, and I congratulate the local and visiting artists whose films will be showcased. SFU WOODWARD'S WELCOMES VLAFF

For seven years, SFU Woodward's Cultural Programs and the Vancouver Latin American Film Festival have come together to form a cultural partnership that reflects our shared values of using art to provoke dialogue. VLAFF films are topical, inspiring, and informative.

On this 15th Anniversary year of the festival, a special ovation is in order to properly acknowledge VLAFF's founders, longstanding board members, the army of committed volunteers, and most notably, an ever inspired artistic and administrative team! For every hard-earned dollar raised, you have leveraged and multiplied its impact tenfold. VLAFF is an indelible part of British Columbia's cultural landscape. BRAVO.

SFUW celebrates VLAFF's consistent quality of cinema reflecting the panorama of cultural diversity and complexity of Latin America. These films provide a unique window into the people and politics of Latin America often realized by filmmakers who take great risks to make the stories a celluloid reality. To them we are ever indebted. Create. Engage. Transform.

SFU Woodward's Cultural Programs is a unique professional community engagement initiative of Simon Fraser University. SFUW's vision is to enable and promote creativity and cutting-edge artistic practices in the contemporary arts. With VLAFF, our cultural partnership not only provides a state of the art cinema in Vancouver's Downtown Eastside, but offers support on the artistic level, notably supporting the Indigenous Film from BC & Beyond program, and the attendance of visiting filmmakers for the opening and closing screenings. By hosting these artists in person, SFUW and VLAFF can provide a unique experience to audiences, having these filmmakers speak about their work and processes.

Congratulations to the VLAFF team for 15 years of outstanding film festival programming. We look forward to many more!

SFU FACULTY OF ARTS WELCOMES VLAFF

The Faculty of Arts at Simon Fraser University is delighted to renew our commitment to the Vancouver Latin American Film Festival for its fifteenth anniversary edition. Over the years VLAFF has acted as a foundational event in the calendar of members of the Latin American community in Vancouver, a moment when new friends and old friends gather to share in some of the best filmmaking on the planet. We at SFU have been fortunate to contribute in some small way to the festival's growth from a small, plucky upstart to a signature event in this city. The festival is memorable both for faculty and students at SFU, and we hope to support the festival for many years to come. Special thanks to the director, staff, and innumerable volunteers at VLAFF!

A MESSAGE FROM CONSUL GENERAL OF BRAZIL IN VANCOUVER

The Consulate of Brazil is pleased to continue supporting VLAFF, which represents a unique and creative opportunity for Vancouverites to enjoy the vitality of Latin American cinema.

Movies are excellent tools to entertain and educate audiences, strengthen cultural ties and overcome simplistic views and stereotypes and I am certain that VLAFF 2017, as the most important celebration of Latin American films in Western Canada, will provide a rich panorama of current productions from the region.

I wish to congratulate the director, staff and VLAFF volunteers for organizing the Festival and invite all Vancouverites to share the treasures VLAFF will offer us this year

Cordialmente / Best regards,

Ernesto Otto

The Consulate General of Mexico in Vancouver is proud to be a supporter of the Vancouver Latin American Film Festival, a great advocate of classic and contemporary Mexican cinema in this city.

The Vancouver Latin American Film Festival provides the great opportunity to experience the diversity and richness of Latin American cinema. It has also served as a bridge between Mexico's contemporary talent and Vancouver's film society.

Congratulations to VLAFF, its board of directors, staff and all of its volunteers for the talent, effort and commitment that makes it possible to reach 15 years of success.

SHORT FILM COMPETITION JURY

JULES ARITA KOOSTACHIN is Cree from Attawapiskat First Nation in the Moshkekowok territory. Jules is a media artist, writer and storyteller. She is also a PhD candidate researching Indigenous documentary with the Institute of Gender, Race, Sexuality and Social Justice at the University of British Columbia. Jules' company VisJuelles Productions Inc. has a number of television and film project credits, and is currently releasing her latest documentary Butterfly Monument: A Tribute to Shannen Koostachin with co-director/producer Rick Miller. Her short films Niipii (Water) and Without Words both screened in past years in the Indigenous Film from BC & Beyond program at VLAFF. Jules has been working within Indigenous communities for many years and hopes to continue shedding light on the diversity of Indigenous realities.

CARMEN RODRÍGUEZ was born in Valdivia, Chile and came to Canada as a political exile in 1974. She is the author of Guerra Prolongada/Protracted War (1992), a bilingual volume of poetry; and a body to remember with/De cuerpo entero (1997), a collection of short stories; and Retribution (2011), a novel. Her second novel, Atacama, is forthcoming. In addition to being a writer, Carmen has worked extensively as an educator and journalist. Until recently, she taught in the Latin American Studies Program of Simon Fraser University and was a Vancouver correspondent for the Spanish language section of Radio Canada International. She believes strongly in the connection between language and activism, how language can be used as a tool for liberation: to name the world, reflect upon it, exchange stories and ideas, and articulate the actions we can take to build a more equitable society.

JEN SUNGSHINE speaks for a living, but lives for breathing life into unspoken situations in unusual places. As a queer Taiwanese artist-activist based in Vancouver, BC, she is guided by an ethos of care that is rooted in the ancestral lands of the Coast Salish people. A facilitator by trade, she works with creative technology and social justice media through Love Intersections, Our City of Colours, Out in Schools and the Social Justice Institute at the University of British Columbia. Jen's artistic practice involves learning through unlearning; and instead of calling you out, she wants to call you in, to make artful social change with her. In the audience, she looks for art in your interruption.

2017 YOUTH JURY

Twenty youth from across the Lower Mainland will watch, debate and champion the eight films in the New Directors Competition to select the winner of the Youth Choice Award. On September 3, the Youth Jury will present the award before the Closing Night Film.

Join us in welcoming the 2017 Youth Jury!

Daniel Mantovani, a Nobel Prize-winning author living in Barcelona, reluctantly accepts an invitation to receive a prize in his hometown of Salas in rural Argentina, after an absence of forty years. The town and its citizens turn out to have been the inspiration for many of the characters in his novels, which is a source of both pride and resentment for its citizens, who have never received any acknowledgement. Art, fame and the vagaries of literary inspiration all magnificently collide in this sly, satirical comedy by the talented filmmaking trio of Gastón Duprat, Mariano Cohn and Andrés Duprat Winner of Best Actor (Oscar Martínez) at the Venice Film Festival and the 2017 Goya Award for Best Iberoamerican Film.

"Razor sharp and very funny, this is a wry and engaging comedy on celebrity, creativity and that forbidden place called home." Palms Springs Film Festival

SANTA & ANDRES

Cuba | 2016
Spanish with English subtitles | 105 min

DIRECTOR/WRITER: Carlos Lechuga PRODUCERS: Claudia Calviño, Carlos Lechuga
CINEMATOGRAPHER: Javier Labrador EDITOR: Joanna Montero MUSIC: Santiago Barbosa Cañon CAST: Lola Amores, Eduardo Martínez, George Abreu, Luna Tinoco, Cesar Domínguez

Santa, a peasant woman loyal to the Revolution, is sent to guard Andrés, a gay writer who is under house arrest, considered "untrustworthy" for his ideas and sexuality by the Cuban authorities. Set in a small village in eastern Cuba during the early 1980s, this poignant political drama depicts an encounter between two deeply thoughtful souls on opposite sides of a profound cultural divide. Both have experienced deep loss, and both know the damaging effects of isolation and oppression. Even so, the cavernous ideological divide separating them — the same one that has separated Cuban friends and kin for over 50 years — has until now seemed insurmountable.

"...the virtues of Carlos Lechuga's second feature are the quiet, human ones, the script carefully and respectfully training its gaze on two unwilling outsiders struggling to live a life that the system has stolen from them."
Jonathan Holland, The Hollywood Reporter

Santa es una solitaria campesina que es enviada a vigilar a Andrés, un escritor homosexual, que no le inspira "confianza" a la Revolución. La historia transcurre en el oriente de Cuba, a principios de los años 80, y trata de la amistad que surge entre dos personas que, aparentemente son muy distintas, pero que poco a poco se van percatando que las cosas que los unen son más importantes que las que los separan.

Carlos Lechuga (Havana, Cuba, 1983) studied directing at Cuba's Fine Arts Institute and scriptwriting at the International Film and TV School (EICTV) in San Antonio de los Baños. After directing several short films he made his feature debut Melaza (2012). His second feature, Santa & Andres (2016) won Best Iberoamerican Film at the Guadalajara Film Festival.

SHORT FILMS FROM CUBA'S INTERNATIONAL FILM AND TV SCHOOL

At the Escuela Internacional de Cine y Television (EICTV) in San Antonio de los Baños, Cuba audiovisual theory goes hand in hand with practice. As defined in its founding documents, the school is “a power plant that produces creative energy for audiovisual images. (A factory of the eye and the ear, a laboratory of the eye and the ear, an amusement park of the eye and the ear).”

In 2016, the EICTV celebrated its 30th Anniversary. The school was founded on December 15, 1986, by a group of artists and filmmakers including Colombian journalist and writer Gabriel García Márquez, Cuban theoreticians and filmmakers Julio García Espinosa and Tomás Gutiérrez Alea, and Argentine poet and filmmaker Fernando Birri.

The EICTV is considered one of the most important audiovisual training institutions in the world. Originally designed for students from Latin America, Africa and Asia, the EICTV implements the teaching philosophy of “learning by doing,” with teachers who are actively working filmmakers and who convey their knowledge through hands on exercises and experience. In recent times, the EICTV has expanded its mandate and now accepts students from all over the world.

Throughout the three years of study at the school, students take on filmmaking in all its complexity, from their first one-minute exercise to their graduation film. In this way, the school constantly produces a significant number of films that have a life beyond just the academic environment, as they tour the festival circuit and other exhibition spaces.

The many international awards that graduates have received are testament to the aesthetic and conceptual quality of the films produced by the different students who make up the school community. These award-winning films are a sample of the different poetics, the different creative periods that form the wide and complex audiovisual heritage created at the EICTV during three decades of uninterrupted filmmaking training.

Cuba | 2016

Spanish with English subtitles | 110 min

DIRECTOR/WRITER: Pavel Giroud, JuanMa Villar Betancort PRODUCERS: JuanMa Villar Betancort, Maria Ionescu CINEMATOGRAPHER: Santiago Torres Marrero EDITORS: Ximena Alejandra, José Jorge CAST: Ernesto Lecuona, Chucho Valdés, Michel Camilo & Gonzalo Rubalcaba

Playing Lecuona is a musical journey through the works and living spaces of Ernesto Lecuona, the internationally acclaimed Cuban pianist and piano composer. Serving as guides through Lecuona's music are three of the most gifted Latin jazz pianists in the world: Chucho Valdés, Michel Camilo, and Gonzalo Rubalcaba. Valdés fuses Latin jazz together with Afro-Cuban rhythms in Lecuona's native Havana; Camilo recreates elegant aural soundscapes in New York and the Canary Islands; and Rubalcaba fuses jazz and flamenco in Seville, the heart of Andalusian Spain. Together, these three musicians provide a rich portrait of Lecuona's music and its lasting influence.

“A top-notch performance-based tribute to legendary Cuban pianist Ernesto Lecuona, Playing Lecuona shows how his influence is manifest, a century after he stepped onto the world stage.”

John Defore, The Hollywood Reporter

Playing Lecuona es un viaje musical a través de la obra y espacios vitales de Ernesto Lecuona, el pianista y compositor de piano más universal en Iberoamérica. Para esta odisea y tributo, los tres pianistas más destacados del latin-jazz mundial se unen para servirnos como guías: Chucho Valdés, Michel Camilo y Gonzalo Rubalcaba. Valdés junta el latin-jazz con los ritmos afro-cubanos de Habana, ciudad natal de Lecuona; Camilo recrea paisajes sonoros en Nueva York y las Islas Canarias; y Rubalcaba funde el jazz y el flamenco en Sevilla, ciudad inspiradora para Lecuona.

DIRECTOR/WRITER: Alice de Andrade PRODUCERS: Lula Leite Franco, Gustavo Sánchez CINEMATOGRAPHERS: Ángel Alderete, Nicolás Wong EDITORS: Idê Lacrete, Joana Collier MUSIC: Pedro Cintra CAST: Miriam Planas Grillo, Andrés Martínez, Sílvia Plá Camaño, Danilo Perdomo, Marlene Berg Borbón, Mario Cotilla Aldama, Karla Cecília Berg, Winnie Camila Berg

In September 1992, at the height of the Special Period in Cuba, forty young couples on the verge of marriage participated in the casting selection for director Alice de Andrade's first documentary Luna de miel (Honeymoon), about wedding rituals in a socialist context. Twenty years later, she revisits three of these couples to see how the country's economic and social transformations have impacted their lives. Twenty Years is a fascinating glimpse into the recent history of Cuba through the intimate lives of three divergent couples.

“20 years in Cuba is not the same as in the rest of the world.”
Director Alice de Andrade

Cuba, septiembre de 1992. Durante el “Período Especial,” 40 parejas a punto de casarse participaron en el casting de Luna de Miel, primer documental de la directora, que abordaba el matrimonio como ritual socialista. Veinte años más tarde, cuando Cuba comienza a poner en práctica importantes reformas para actualizar su modelo económico, la cineasta se reencontra con tres de estas parejas para captar los reflejos de la transformación del país en la vida de sus familias.

LUCÍA

Cuba | 1968
Spanish with English subtitles | 160 min

DIRECTOR: Humberto Solás PRODUCERS: Raúl Canosa, Camilo Vives
WRITERS: Julio García Espinosa, Nelson Rodríguez, Humberto Solás
CINEMATOGRAPHER: Jorge Herrero EDITOR: Nelson Rodríguez
CAST: Raquel Revuelta, Esllinda Núñez, Adela Legrá

In his award-winning film Lucía, Humberto Solás interpreted the theme of Cuba's hundred years' struggle in an entirely novel way to create an epic in three separate episodes, each centred around a woman called Lucía and each unfolding in a different period of Cuban history, corresponding to the three stages of colonialism (1895), neocolonialism (1930) and socialist revolution (1968). The three episodes also present us with "Lucías" of different social classes. Solás described his film in this way: "The woman's role always lays bare the contradictions of a period and makes them explicit: Lucía is not a film about women, it's a film about society."

"It's the best discussion of equality (and inequality) I've seen on screen, and the clashes are clarified by comedy."
Nora Sayre, The New York Times

En Lucía, Humberto Solás interpreta el tema de la lucha de los cien años de forma totalmente nueva: una epopeya en tres episodios distintos, cada uno centrado en torno a una mujer, Lucía, desarrollándose en un periodo diferente de la historia cubana, correspondiente a las tres etapas del colonialismo, el neocolonialismo y la revolución socialista. Los tres episodios nos presentan también "Lucías" de diferentes clases sociales. Según Solás, "el papel de las mujeres revela las contradicciones de un periodo y las hace evidentes. 'Lucía' no es una película sobre las mujeres sino una película sobre la sociedad."

MEMORIES OF UNDERDEVELOPMENT

MEMORIAS DEL SUBDESARROLLO

Cuba | 1968
Spanish with English subtitles | 104 min

DIRECTOR: Tomás Gutiérrez Alea PRODUCERS: Miguel Mendoza,
WRITERS: Tomás Gutiérrez Alea, Edmundo Desnoes CINEMATOGRAPHER: Ramón F. Suárez EDITOR: Nelson Rodríguez SOUND: Eugenio Vesa, Carlos Fernández MUSIC: Leo Brouwer CAST: Sergio Corrieri, Daisy Granados, Esllinda Núñez, Omar Valdéz, René de la Cruz

Hailed by many critics as the most sophisticated film ever to come out of Cuba and one of the Top 100 films of all time, Memories of Underdevelopment is the masterpiece of visionary Cuban director Tomás Gutiérrez Alea.

Sergio, a Cuban bourgeois dilettante and aspiring writer, refuses to accompany his family into exile in the USA in the years following the triumph of the Revolution. His inconsistent ideology keeps him on the sidelines of a frenzied society; having lost his former world, he can't quite find his place in the new revolutionary process, and spends his time chasing women to fill the void. As the October Missile Crisis of 1962 unfolds, Sergio's intellectual ideals, like his country, are put to the ultimate test.

"This stirring blend of narrative fiction, still photography and rare documentary footage catalogs the many intricacies and contradictions of a bourgeois Cuban intellectual's loyalty to Castro's revolution."
Ed Gonzalez, Slant Magazine

Sergio, un dilettante burgués cubano, se niega a acompañar a su familia al exilio en los Estados Unidos. Su inconsistencia ideológica lo mantiene como simple espectador de una sociedad convulsa, perdido ya su antiguo mundo y sin poder incorporarse al nuevo proceso revolucionario.

STRAWBERRY & CHOCOLATE

FRESA Y CHOCOLATE

Cuba | 1993
Spanish with English subtitles | 110 min

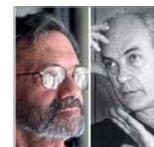

DIRECTORS: Tomás Gutiérrez Alea, Juan Carlos Tabío PRODUCERS: Camilo Vives, Frank Cabrera, Georgina Balzaretti WRITERS: Senel Paz, Tomás Gutiérrez Alea CINEMATOGRAPHER: Mario García Joya EDITORS: Miriam Talavera, Rolando Martínez, Osvaldo Donatién MUSIC: José María Vitier CAST: Jorge Perugorría, Vladimir Cruz, Mirta Ibarra

Havana, Cuba, 1979. Flamboyantly gay artist Diego (Jorge Perugorría) attempts to seduce the straight and strait-laced David, an idealistic young communist, and fails dismally. But David conspires to become friends with Diego so he can monitor the artist's subversive life for the state. As Diego and David discuss politics, individuality and personal expression in Castro's Cuba, a genuine friendship develops between the two. But can it last? Strawberry and Chocolate became an instant hit when it was released, and has become a classic of Cuban cinema due to its charming and authentic exploration of a connection between two people under historical circumstances that seem levelled against them.

"Watching [Gutiérrez Alea's] funny and likeable Havana-set comedy is like chancing upon some undiscovered early gem by Godard or Woody Allen, and yet it has a worldliness and drollery that is all its own."
Peter Bradshaw, The Guardian

Diego, homosexual culto y marginado, ama a su país y a sus tradiciones. Conoce a David, joven estudiante universitario, inculco y militante de la Juventud Comunista. El primero intenta seducir al segundo sin éxito, mientras David conspira con volverse amigo de Diego para documentar su vida subversiva para el estado. Entre conversaciones sobre la política, la individualidad y la libertad de expresión en la Cuba de Castro, se establece una relación amistosa genuina que derrumba incomprendiones, prejuicios e intolerancias.

THE CASTLE OF PURITY
EL CASTILLO DE LA PUREZA

Mexico | 1972
Spanish with English subtitles | 110 min

DIRECTOR: Arturo Ripstein PRODUCERS: Angélica Ortíz WRITERS: José Emilio Pacheco, Arturo Ripstein CINEMATOGRAPHER: Alex Phillips EDITOR: Rafael Castanedo, Eufemio Rivera MUSIC: Joaquín Gutiérrez Heras CAST: Claudio Brook, Rita Macedo, Arturo Beristáin, Diana Bracho, Gladys Bermejo

This special co-presentation with the Consulate General of Mexico in Vancouver and VIFF's Vancity Theatre will be accompanied by an introduction "From Analog to Digital" given by Héctor Ramírez Williams, Director of the Mexican Film Institute (IMCINE) Archives.

In this darkly claustrophobic masterpiece, Gabriel Lima (played by Claudio Brook, Buñuel's Simon of the Desert) decides he must protect his family from the corruption of the modern world by keeping them locked up for 18 years inside their ramshackle house. He is governed almost obsessively by ideas about the evils of humanity contained in the philosophy books that he reads. His three children—Future, Utopia and Free Will—are supposed to follow the path that he determines for them, but the maddening confinement and Gabriel's inability to keep his family completely untouched by the outside world, will slowly undermine his castle of purity.

"A haunting, melancholic fable by one of the true mavericks of Mexican cinema."

Gabriel Lima está convencido de que la gente es mala por naturaleza y de que su familia puede sufrir las consecuencias. Por eso encierra durante años a su esposa y a sus hijos en una auténtica fortaleza. Cualquier precaución es poca para evitar que la maldad del ser humano penetre en el castillo de la pureza.

Arturo Ripstein (Mexico City, 1943) began his career as assistant director (uncredited) to Luis Buñuel in El ángel exterminador (1962). He made his first film at the age of 21, Tiempo de morir (1965), a western written by Gabriel García Márquez and Carlos Fuentes. He developed a signature style of darkly atmospheric visuals and gritty, subversive themes, and with over 23 films to his credit is widely considered one of the crucial Mexican filmmakers of our time.

DIRECTOR/WRITER: Kleber Mendonça Filho PRODUCERS: Saïd Ben Saïd, Emile Lesclaux, Michel Merkt CINEMATOGRAPHER: Pedro Sotero, Fabricio Tadeu EDITOR: Eduardo Serrano CAST: Sônia Braga, Maeve Jinkings, Irandhir Santos, Humberto Carrão

This second cinematic masterpiece by Kleber Mendonça Filho (Neighbouring Sounds) stars the luminous Sônia Braga as Clara, a 65-year-old widow and retired music critic, fighting to save her seaside home in Recife, Brazil. She is the last resident of the Aquarius, a vintage two-storey building built in the 1940s on the Avenida Boa Viagem. All the neighbouring apartments have already been acquired by an ambitious developer. However Clara has pledged not to leave her place until she dies, and engages in a tense confrontation with the company that is mysterious, frightening and nerve-racking, for this is not just a fight to preserve a physical space, but all the memories and history contained within.

"Aquarius is a character study as well as a shrewd meditation on the needless transience of place and the way physical space elides with our identity." Jay Weissberg, Variety

Clara (Sônia Braga), jornalista e escritora, é a última moradora do edifício que dá título à obra. Enquanto que todos os outros apartamentos foram adquiridos por um construtor ambicioso que pretende demolir o prédio para construir um condomínio de luxo, Clara está determinada a ficar em Aquarius. Através da disputa pelo espaço físico, o filme aborda temas como especulação imobiliária, passagem do tempo e memórias.

DIRECTOR: Pablo Larraín PRODUCER: Juan de Dios Larraín, Fernanda del Nido, AZ Films CINEMATOGRAPHER: Sergio Armstrong EDITOR: Hervé Schneid MUSIC: Federico Jusid CAST: Luis Gnecco, Gael García Bernal, Mercedes Morán, Jaime Vadell, Alfredo Castro

Tonight I can write the saddest lines... It's 1948 and the Cold War has arrived in Chile. In the Congress, prominent Communist Senator and popular poet Pablo Neruda accuses the government of betraying the Party and is stripped of his parliamentary immunity by President González Videla. The Chief of Investigative Police instructs Inspector Óscar Peluchonneau (played by Gael García Bernal), to arrest the poet. Neruda tries to escape from the country with his wife, the painter Delia del Carril, but they are forced to go underground. Inspired by the dramatic events of his new life as a fugitive, Neruda continues to write his epic Canto General, while being pursued ever more hotly by the forces of fascism.

"Not a biopic but a Nerudian take on the famed Chilean politician-poet, Neruda is a stunningly inventive take on the function rather than the life of a writer." Jay Weissberg, Variety

Se le ordena al prefecto de la policía de investigaciones, Óscar Peluchonneau (Gael García Bernal) que aprese al poeta. Hypnotic, perturbing, and utterly enthralling, The Untamed combines a suspenseful family drama with truly bizarre elements of science fiction and horror. Desperate to flee but consumed by fear, Alejandra, a young mother and working housewife, is trapped in a violent and unsatisfying relationship with her husband, Angel. She leans on her brother Fabián for support, but he has secrets of his own. All of their lives are turned upside down by the arrival of the mysterious Veronica. She convinces them that in the nearby woods, inside an isolated cabin, dwells something not of this world that could be the answer to all of their problems... something whose force they cannot resist and with whom they must make peace or suffer its wrath.

"Sensual, erotic, and uncompromisingly weird, The Untamed will be difficult to forget." Diana Sanchez, TIFF

Alejandra es una joven madre y ama de casa que cría a sus hijos junto a su marido Ángel en una pequeña ciudad de México. Su hermano Fabián es enfermero en un hospital local. Sus vidas provincianas son alteradas con la llegada de la misteriosa Verónica. El sexo y el amor son frágiles en ciertas regiones donde existen los valores familiares y la hipocresía, y el machismo son fuertes. Verónica les convence de que en el bosque cercano, en una cabaña aislada, existe algo que no es de este mundo pero que es la respuesta a todos sus problemas. Es algo a cuya fuerza no se pueden resistir y con lo que deben hacer paz o sufrir su ira.

TODO SOBRE EL ASADO

Argentina | 2016
Spanish with English subtitles | 90 min

DIRECTORS: Gastón Duprat, Mariano Cohn PRODUCER: Fernando Sokolowicz WRITER: Andrés Duprat CINEMATOGRAPHER: Joaquín Silvatici EDITOR: Jerónimo Carranza CAST: Carlos "El Negro" Alvarez, Emilio Disi, Ernesto Imas, Mónica Duprat, Eugenio Scopel, Emma Rivera, Fabián Biscione, Romina Pinto

All About Asado is a trip into the culinary heart of Argentina. Asado, the tradition of grilled meat, is a food and also a ritual. It is primitive and modern, wild and sophisticated, an art and a science. Few phenomena reveal the essential characteristics of Argentina's national identity with more originality and precision. Equal parts road-movie, documentary and fiction, Gastón Duprat and Mariano Cohn's playful film delves into the almost sacred tradition of asado, using a sharp and irreverent gaze to explore the country's meaty fixation.

"It is a hyperrealistic portrait, with the social, the cultural and the gastronomic all on the same platter with the roast. In short, a great piece to sink your teeth into." Pablo O. Scholz, Clarín

Todo sobre el asado es un viaje a lo profundo de la Argentina. El asado es una comida y un ritual. Es primitivo y contemporáneo, salvaje y refinado, un arte y una ciencia. Pocos fenómenos revelan con mayor originalidad y precisión los rasgos esenciales de la identidad nacional argentina. La nueva película de Gastón Duprat y Mariano Cohn le hace frente a esta tradición casi sagrada, con una mirada precisa e irreverente hacia esa fascinación gastronómica.

ALBA

Ecuador | 2016
Spanish with English subtitles | 96 min

DIRECTOR/WRITER: Ana Cristina Barragán PRODUCER: Isabella Parra
CINEMATOGRAPHER: Simon Brauer EDITORS: Yibrán Asuad, Juan Daniel Molero, José María Avilés MUSIC: Alex Icaza CAST: Macarena Arias, Pablo Aguirre, Amaia Merino

When eleven-year-old Alba's mother is hospitalized for a prolonged illness, Alba is sent to live with her father—a man she has never really known. Igor is a quiet, solitary soul who shut himself away in a small house after separating from his family. This new life for the extremely shy Alba and her socially reserved father is almost unbearable for both of them. Her father's misguided attempts to make her feel at home and the embarrassment this causes, along with her first kiss and bullying at school, all mark Alba's path towards adolescence and self-acceptance. This quietly poignant film exquisitely captures the sometimes rocky and lonely experience of childhood.

"The claim of Ecuadorian cinema to a higher international profile is strengthened considerably by Ana Cristina Barragan's beautifully understated Alba." Jonathan Holland, The Hollywood Reporter

Cuando su mamá enferma es hospitalizada, Alba, una niña de 11 años, debe ir a vivir con su padre, Igor. Igor es un hombre solitario que después de separarse de su familia se encerró en una casa pequeña. La convivencia para Alba, una niña introvertida y tímida, es casi insoportable. Los intentos de su padre por acercarse a ella y la vergüenza que aquello le causa, junto a su primer beso y el bullying en el colegio, son estímulos que marcan el camino de Alba hacia la adolescencia y a la aceptación de sí misma.

Using as a backdrop the ongoing violent conflict between Chile's Indigenous Mapuche communities and the forces who want to strip them of their lands, Claudia Huaiquimilla's urgent and wrenching first feature film focuses on the burgeoning friendship between two teenagers. Rebellious Tano is sent from the city of Santiago to the small mountain community of Wallmapu under the care of his father, Javier, after he is arrested for his participation in a violent robbery. There he befriends Cheo, a shy Mapuche boy, who is bullied at school. Their friendship deepens as everything explodes around them following the death of an influential community leader.

"Huaiquimilla, along with co-writer Pablo Greene, brilliantly weaves together themes both grand and intimate—a rich human tapestry played against an urgent social and environmental crisis." SIFF

Para su primer largometraje, la realizadora Claudia Huaiquimilla usa como trasfondo el continuo conflicto entre las comunidades mapuches de Chile y las fuerzas que quieren desalojarlas de sus tierras para narrar esta historia sobre la amistad entre dos adolescentes. Tano es enviado a la pequeña comunidad montañosa de Wallmapu bajo el cuidado de su padre tras ser arrestado por su participación en un robo violento. EL AMPARO

On the border of Venezuela and Colombia during the late 1980s, two fishermen survive an armed assault in the channels of the Arauca River, in which fourteen of their companions disappear. The Army accuses the survivors of being guerrilla fighters and tries via intimidation to seize them from the cell where they are being watched over by the local police officer and by the village population, who are desperate to prevent them from being taken away. Rober Calzadilla's hauntingly dramatic film—based on a real historical event—explores the tensions that arise when a community is confronted by tragedy and the truth is not clear on any side.

"A taut drama that smartly and wisely sidesteps the potential pitfalls of historical recreation." Jonathan Holland, The Hollywood Reporter

En la frontera de Venezuela con Colombia a finales de los 80, dos pescadores sobreviven a un ataque armado perpetrado en los caños del Río Arauca, donde catorce de sus compañeros mueren en el acto. El ejército los acusa de guerrilleros y, a través de intimidación, intenta sacarlos de la celda donde son custodiados por un policía y por la gente del pueblo, que trata desesperadamente de impedir que se los lleven. Esta película de Rober Calzadilla—basada en eventos reales—examina la tensión que se manifiesta cuando una comunidad se enfrenta a una tragedia.

Eighteen-year-old Xiaobin is a recent émigré in Buenos Aires, where she's joined her family after some time living apart. She gets a job in a deli, but her Spanish is so basic she can't understand the customers, and is promptly fired. Soon after, she finds work in a supermarket, which is where she meets Indian immigrant Vijay, who asks her out on a date. Meanwhile, unbeknownst to her parents, who have no interest in integrating into Argentine society, Xiaobin begins taking Spanish lessons. The extremely clever conceit of The Future Perfect is that as Xiaobin learns new tenses, so her life moves from past and present to an unconditional, and even hypothetical, future.

"Wohlatz's sensitivity to language, the way it's used and how the ability to express oneself literally changes the manner in which we deal with the world around us, is subtly yet rigorously demonstrated." Jay Weissberg, Variety

Xiaobin, una joven de 17 años, llega de China a Argentina, donde se une a su familia que ya lleva tiempo en Buenos Aires. Prueba nombres españoles como si fuesen vestuarios, a ver cuál le queda bien. Surreal, engaging and absurd, this clever political satire has a unique take on what becomes of the workers when the work becomes obsolete.

DIRECTOR: Peter Bratt PRODUCER: Brian Benson WRITER: Peter Bratt, Jessica Congdon CINEMATOGRAPHER: Jesse Dana EDITOR: Jessica Congdon MUSIC: Mark Kilian

History tells us that César Chávez transformed the U.S. labour movement by creating the United Farm Workers Union in the early 1960s. But missing from this narrative is his equally influential co-founder, Dolores Huerta, who fought tirelessly alongside Chávez for racial and labour justice and became one of the most defiant feminists of the twentieth century. Like so many powerful women advocates, Dolores and her sweeping reforms were—and still are—sidelined and diminished. Peter Bratt's illuminating and engaging documentary is a powerful portrait of one of the most important social justice activists in U.S. history and a long-overdue tribute to a pioneering woman.

"Bratt distills the complexity of an unstoppable woman and the impact she brought not only to workers' rights but to the expanding role of women at the time." Duane Byrge, The Hollywood Reporter

La historia nos dice que fue César Chávez quien transformó el movimiento de trabajadores estadounidense al liderar la primera unión de trabajadores campesinos. Sin embargo, esta narrativa deja de lado a la co-fundadora, Dolores Huerta, quien peleó hasta el cansancio junto con Chávez en pro de la justicia racial y laboral. De esta forma, se volvió una de las feministas más desafiantes del siglo XX. Al igual que muchas grandes mujeres activistas, Dolores y sus reformas fueron -y siguen siendo- hechas a un lado y minimizadas. Rumores y acusaciones falsas tanto de enemigos como de amigos en cuanto a abandono de hijos y comportamiento inmoral -se casó tres veces y crío 11 hijos- obligaron a Dolores a salir del sindicato que ella misma ayudó a crear.

A diverse group of refugees and low-income Brazilian workers occupy the Hotel Cambridge, a formerly abandoned concrete high-rise in downtown São Paulo. The authorities have given its residents 15 days to move out or be thrown out. Led by Dona Carmen and the FLM (Front in the Struggle for Housing), the residents band together to defend their rights. Blending documentary and fiction, the film brings the viewer into the intimate lives of several of the residents including Ngandu from the Congo, and Hassam and his nephew Kalil from Palestine. Daily dramas, comical situations and different views on the world commingle in this fascinating and inspiring glimpse into Brazil's housing and anti-gentrification movement.

TEMPESTAD

Mexico | 2016
Spanish with English subtitles | 105 min

DIRECTOR/WRITER: Tatiana Huezo PRODUCERS: Nicolás Celis, Sebastián Celis CINEMATOGRAPHER: Ernesto Pardo EDITORS: Tatiana Huezo, Lucrecia Gutiérrez Maupomé CAST: Miriam Carbajal, Adela Alvarado

A woman is imprisoned in a private prison operated by an organized criminal group, while another has spent the last decade searching for her missing daughter. Together with images that submerge us in a trip through the physical landscape of Mexico, these two women's testimonies intermingle and take us on a journey to the centre of a powerful storm: a place where violence and impunity have taken complete control of individuals' and communities' lives and dreams. Through their voices, director Tatiana Huezo draws us into the story of a country steeped in loss and pain, but also love, dignity and resistance.

"The two spoken stories that run parallel in Tatiana Huezo's smouldering, incendiary documentary would be worth hearing even if they weren't accompanied by such absorbing imagery."

Jessica Kiang, IndieWire

Una mujer es recluida en una cárcel controlada por el crimen organizado mientras que otra busca a su hija desaparecida. A través de imágenes que nos sumergen en un viaje del norte al sur de México, los dos testimonios se entrelazan y nos llevan al centro de una tormenta: un país en donde la violencia ha tomado el control de las vidas y los sueños de individuos y comunidades. Frente a eso, la claridad de dos mujeres, que como un pequeño y revelador acto de resistencia, se niega a conformarse con esta realidad.

O'Dam, Mexicanero, Wixárika and Spanish with English subtitles | 45 min

DIRECTORS/PRODUCERS/WRITERS: Carmen Henríquez & Denis Paquette

CINEMATOGRAPHER: Denis Paquette EDITOR: Carmen Henríquez CAST: Simon Baker

In Native Planet, host Simon Baker travels deep inside Mexico's Durango State, to meet Indigenous communities still practicing their traditional justice systems, largely independent from the Government of Mexico. Long before the Spanish came to colonize the country centuries ago, the Mezquital, a remote part of the Sierra Madre Mountains, was home to the Indigenous O'Dam, Mexicaneros and Wixárika people. For generations, Mexico largely ignored these Indigenous people who successfully carved out their own existence, culture, identity and social justice system. However, recent events have impoverished their agrarian communities and made them easy targets for the cartels, which coerce them into growing illegal crops. Now, the lands belonging to these largely forgotten Indigenous communities are the front lines in a battle between rival cartels and the country's military police. As Simon travels their high mountain roads to visit O'Dam, Mexicaneros and Wixárika communities, he comes to understand how increasing violence is shaping their environment and their ability to sustain their peace and independence.

En Native Planet, el protagonista Simon Baker viaja al México profundo, en el estado de Durango, para conocer a las comunidades indígenas que continúan practicando el sistema de justicia tradicional, y que es independiente al que practica el gobierno mexicano. Mucho tiempo antes de que España colonizó el país, la zona de El Mezquital, una parte remota situada en las montañas de la sierra madre, era el hogar de las naciones O'Dam, Mexicaneros y Wixárika. Ahora, la tierra que les pertenece a los grupos indígenas quienes han sido olvidados por el gobierno, está en la zona frontal de las batallas entre cárteles rivales y la policía militar del país.

THE STRAWBERRY TREE EL ÁRBOL DE LAS FRESAS

Canada/Cuba, 2011
Spanish with English subtitles | 70 min

DIRECTOR/WRITER/PRODUCER/CINEMATOGRAPHER/EDITOR: Simone Rapisarda Casanova

Filed in the remote fishing village of Juan Antonio, Cuba just weeks before a hurricane swept the site off the face of the earth, El árbol de las fresas is a mesmerizing cinematic poem that tests the boundaries between anthropology, documentary, and reverie. The villagers' ingeniousness and resilience, as well as their playful and irreverent relationship with the filmmaker, transform a sensitive portrait of the unique Taíno-Spanish culture into a reflection on documentary filmmaking itself and on humanity at the edge of time.

"Finally, when this hamlet vanishes...there is an intractable absence left, a lingering reminder of life in all its glorious and homely wonder."
Justin Mah, DOXA

Filmada en el remoto pueblo pesquero de Juan Antonio, en Cuba, solo antes de que desapareciera por un huracán, El árbol de las fresas, es una hermoso poema cinematográfico que testifica los límites entre la antropología y el documental. El ingenio de los habitantes del pueblo, así como sus relaciones divertidas e irreverentes con el realizador, dan un retrato sensible dentro de esta cultura única, y una reflexión acerca del documental y sobre la humanidad en este tiempo.

RESURRECTING HASSAN

Quebec/Chile | 2016
French, English and Russian with English subtitles | 100 min

DIRECTOR/WRITER/PRODUCER/CINEMATOGRAPHER: Carlo Guillermo Proto
EXECUTIVE PRODUCERS: Roxanne Sayegh, Pablo Villegas, Maria Paz Gonzalez
EDITORS: Carlo Guillermo Proto, Lorenzo Mora Salazar MUSIC: Olivier Alary
CAST: Denis Harting, Lauviah Harting, Peggy Roux

With great passion and fearlessness, the three members of the Harting family, who are all blind, make a living singing a cappella ballads in the Montreal metro. They are haunted by the tragic drowning death of six-year-old Hassan, who was the only sighted member of their family. Enter Russian mystic and cult-like leader Grigori Petrovitch Grabovoï, who promises to help his followers regenerate and resurrect the dead. For the Hartings, Hassan's resurrection is their only hope for completing their family once more. With intimate access and unflinching observations, this extraordinary documentary chronicles the Hartings' attempts at dealing with their collective grief. What emerges is a highly unusual family portrait of three captivating and complex characters.

"Carlo Guillermo Proto has made an intense but unsensational film that follows a uniquely endearing family, deeply torn between insight, guilt and mysticism." RIDM

Les Harting sont non-voyants. Il y a Denis, le père, passionné de musique, Peggy, la mère, rêvant d'une nouvelle vie, et Lauviah, la fille, qui se fraie un chemin entre l'enfance et l'âge adulte. Tous trois chantent dans le métro de Montréal, et sont hantés par une même absence: celle de Hassan, le petit garçon et seul voyant de la famille, tragiquement décédé quelques années auparavant. Ils puisent espoir et courage en écoutant les leçons d'un mystique russe sur la résurrection. Carlo Guillermo Proto signe un film à fleur de peau, qui parvient à accompagner sans jugement ni pathos une famille aussi singulière qu'attachante, profondément déchirée entre lucidité, culpabilité et mysticisme. Hantés par un passé parfois difficile, ils poursuivent coûte que coûte leur quête de sérénité. (ACO)
